

PETER GREENBERG

Having grown up within the architectural field, Peter Greenberg's interest began at a young age. His formal training provided a thorough education of architectural history and an in-depth understanding of the classical language of architecture. During the past eight years, he has expanded his knowledge to include many technical aspects. Working primarily on meticulously detailed residences, he has acquired a comprehensive knowledge of the architectural process. His fascination with architecture lies in mastering the ability to translate the ideal into built form.

Education/Licensing

B. Arch., University of Notre Dame
Rome Studies Program
Currently taking the ARE in New York

Experience with Allan Greenberg, Architect, LLC:

During the six years Peter has been with the firm, he has been involved with the schematic design, design development, and construction documents phases and the interior detailing of residences, townhouses, and office renovations in Connecticut and New York. He is a project designer for a renovation of and addition to a French-style country house and a Tudor-style country house, both in Fairfield County, Connecticut. He is also involved with a guest house and pool house for a Fairfield County, CT residence.

Additional experience includes a playhouse based on Mount Vernon; the U.S. Headquarters for Turnbull and Asser in Greenwich; a seaside villa on Kiawah Island in South Carolina; the renovation of and addition to a large residence in New York; design development for a 40,000-s.f. residence in Fairfield County; and a stable complex in New York; and interior renovations to a residence in Fairfield County, CT.

Other Professional Experience:

Designer for new construction, renovations, and additions to numerous residences including a 12,000-s.f. Georgian residence in Greenwich; a 14,000-s.f. residence in Southport, CT; a 5,000-s.f. Shingle-style residence on Kiawah Island in South Carolina; and several country clubs in Connecticut and New York.