

THOMAS VAUGHAN NOBLE

During his twenty years with the firm, Thomas Noble, Senior Design Associate, has been responsible for developing designs for a wide range of academic, commercial, residential, and institutional projects. With a degree in historic preservation, he is thoroughly grounded in the classical, Gothic, Romanesque, and Byzantine architectural traditions. He tailors the firm's designs to fit gracefully into demanding sites and stays involved throughout each project to ensure architectural excellence.

Education/ Licensing

A.B., Architecture, Washington University in St. Louis

M.S., Historic Preservation, Columbia University

M. Arch., The University of Virginia

Registered Architect, Commonwealth of Virginia

Experience with Allan Greenberg, Architect, LLC:

Overseeing the design for two residences in Connecticut and the Aaron Burr Hall Renovation and Addition at Princeton University; Project Manager for the Millennium Gate at the College of William and Mary; the Supreme Court Historical Society renovation; the Tommy Hilfiger Flagship Store; and the Proposed Paternoster Square Office Buildings. Designer on the Rice University Humanities Building; the Dupont Hall Laboratory Expansion and Gore Hall at the University of Delaware.

Additional project involvement includes the Unicorn Mining Headquarters; Tercentenary Hall at the College of William and Mary; The News Building; Proposed East Side Apartment Building, New York City; Offices of the Secretary of State, U.S. Department of State; Competition for the Darden Graduate School of Business at the University of Virginia; and residences in Virginia, Connecticut, New York, Minnesota, California, and Ohio.

Other Professional Experience:

The Office of Historic Preservation for the National Park Service and the Office of Planning and Urban Design in Richmond, VA.

Awards, Appointments, and Lectures

Honorable Mention, The First Classical America Design Competition, 1984. Founding member of the Board of Directors of the Classical Architecture League, Inc. Lectured at Classical America in New Haven; Hunter College; University of Miami; and the University of Notre Dame.

An organizer of the Classical Architecture League's Conference on the Work of Emerging Classical Architects in Alexandria, Virginia in 1992, and The Art of Building Cities in Chicago in 1995. Each event received a grant from the Graham Foundation for the Advanced Study in the Fine Arts. His entry for the Pentagon 9/11 Memorial Competition was exhibited at the National Building Museum in 2003 and at the National Civic Arts Society in 2004.

Allan Greenberg, Architect, LLC